Benefit for students in broadcasting/media classes at KBEM Jazz88 at North High School, a Minneapolis K-12 public school. The Arthur Colberg Memorial Scholarship has been awarded annually since 2005 to outstanding students accepted in postsecondary educational programs. The current scholarship is $3,500. To date $35,500 has been awarded.

Art attended North High from 1998 to 2001. The school campus houses a professional radio station where students take classes in radio, mass communication and media arts. Art was a natural on the air. He was all about radio.

Ed Jones, a retired KBEM staffer, said that Art found students in the studio who had no confidence and he coached them on how to speak into a mic. He listened to them and said that it was good and that next time it will be better. His peers performed better on air and they gained confidence. They left high school full of confidence because of Art.

After Art's untimely death in 2004 in a canoe accident, KBEM staff and the Colberg family created the KBEM Colberg scholarship. It honors Art and continues to do what he did at Jazz88--encourage students and help them succeed.
